PRAYER

Dear God,

Thank you for today, for the air we breathe and the life we have in You. Your mercies are new every morning and may we not take that for granted. Transform us inside out and may we not be complacent where we are. Give us hearts to pursue you and worship you whole-heartedly.

We pray for our church, may we be a beacon to the lost to guide them to You. May we have hearts to love those around us. We pray for all the upcoming events in the summer, cell groups, ABBA, and VBS, may You be glorified through them.

We praise You once again.

In Jesus' name, Amen.

What's your favorite way to spend a day off?

I like to meet up with people and eat good food/enjoy the weather together, but if I'm alone, I usually like to watch shows/movies while multitasking with other hobbies i.e. painting, embroidering, cooking, baking, etc.

What are your spiritual gifts and how do you think God uses them?

Exhortation; over the years, God has shown me the value of relationships, and I think exhortation is a gift that can be used in that area. Aside from being used within all the relationships that I have with others, I also think God used this gift to help me find my career choice and will continue to use it as I become an OT.

What is something about you that might surprise others?

When I was younger, I really wanted to pursue a career in music (had a short period of time where I wanted to be a kpop star LOL and a short period of time where I wanted to do classical music). I really enjoyed singing and playing piano/cello, but was definitely not disciplined enough to practice as much as musicians do. I really miss playing and wish that I kept them up as hobbies throughout the years.

Advice you would give to members thinking about entering the grad life?

Balancing between work and rest is so important because you need time to rest/recharge. There are days where I might not be as busy and it'll actually make me feel a little anxious because I feel like there's always something I "could" do. But I find that that time in itself is very valuable because without it, I'd be more burnt out. I think there's a bit more flexibility with how you choose to manage your time in grad school, so it'll be beneficial to find a balance that works for you and has your best, overall well-being in mind!

What are you studying and why?

I am studying to become an occupational therapist! Occupational therapy is, in very loose terms, the rehabilitation of everyday activities (what we call "occupations"). There are biomechanical aspects of this process, which is why there is some overlap with PT. Occupational therapy is very patient-centered and holistic, focusing greatly on mental, emotional, and cognitive health as well; I found it very special to be part of an individual's journey as they pursue rehabilitation, especially in an area of life that is meaningful to them and felt as though this career was a venue in which God wanted me to serve others. :)

What do you wish you had known before starting school?

"Success" is very subjective. I think prior to starting school, it was hard to understand this, as there seemed to be a "natural timeline" that people tended to follow in terms of career. So if I wasn't hitting those "success milestones", especially comparative to my peers, it felt like I was doing something wrong. I wish I realized earlier on that God's timeline will sometimes (usually lol) override whatever timeline that I had in mind but regardless of that, His plans still come out better than my initial plans for success.
